Guernsey Prisoners Lead Romantic Life For Two Years

WEEK-END SPORT

Carnival Week In Full Swing

ANNUAL RACES FOLLOW INTERPORTS

What with the Interport football and hockey (ladies) contests with Shanghai and the Chinese Interport clash between Eastern and Southern China, the Chinese New Year holidays would perhaps have been more fittingly named had they been called the Sports Carnival Week in Hong Kong, for apart from the events mentioned above, there were the "domestic" affairs, the most important of which was undoubtedly the cricket match between the Club and the United Services, a report of which appears elsewhere in this issue.

There was also the tennis encounter between the Kowloon Cricket Club and the Canton Germans, while a number of friendly cricket matches were also played. In addition, the golf courses in Fanling, Deep Water Bay, Happy Valley, Sheungshui, Kowloon City and Shatin were extensively used during the holidays.

GERMANY'S SOYA BEAN IMPORTS

Manchukuoan Trade Hopes Frustrated

Berlin, Feb. 12.
German expectations of an annual export of 700,000 tons of soya beans under the Manchukuoan trade agreement were far from realised last year.

The imports amounted to only 484,100 tons of which considerable quantities came from Rumania and Yugoslavia.

The "Financial Times" says that the steady advance in the price of Manchukuoan beans has frustrated German hopes and that Germany is now suffering from a shortage of oil cake for fodder.

Young Soldier Passes

Rfm. Albert Noddings

The death occurred at the Military Hospital, Bowen Road, yesterday, of Rifleman Albert Noddings, "D" Company, Royal Ulster Rifles.

Deceased, who was 25 years of age, had been ill since last October and had been on the "dangerously ill" list for the last month. He was suffering from pyrexia of an unknown origin.

The funeral has been arranged for this afternoon and will take place at the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The sports carnival will go on for some time now, for no sooner the Interport programmes come to an end than the Annual Race Meeting opens at Happy Valley.

Cricket

(BY L. B. W.)

The cricket matches to-day are all friendly and the most interesting one promises to be that between the Indian Recreation Club and the Army. I hear that there is a distinct possibility of Arthur Rumjahn turning out for the Indians again, and it would be interesting to see how he will shape after all these seasons of inactivity. The Indians badly need another all-rounder in their team and if Rumjahn should show anything like his old form, he would be just the man they have been looking for.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cresswell Swann. He is an engineer and resides at 105, Soochow Road, Shanghai.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Burge, arrived in the Colony from Europe on board the s.s. Gneissau on Tuesday.

Slip Out With Latch Keys And Attend Dances!

Policeman's Fateful Discovery Proves Undoing Of Truants

London, February 12.

Prison reformers, whose real theme is advocacy of means that will enable those serving sentences to keep in touch with their families and the outside world so as to be able to withstand the demoralising effects of long detention, may be highly gratified at the trial unintentionally given by the authorities in the prison on the island of Guernsey in the English Channel, but the general public of England, to judge from press discussions, are horrified at the romantic lives led by the Guernsey prisoners during the past two years.

THE AUTHORITIES HAVE JUST DISCOVERED THAT MOST OF THE PRISONERS HAD LATCH KEYS TO ENABLE THEM TO COME AND GO AS THEY PLEASED. TO SLIP OUT OF THE POST UNCENSORED LETTERS. GO TO CINEMAS, OR HAVE A NIGHT OUT AT A DANCE.

This state of affairs was discovered accidentally by a policeman who had noticed one day that the prison gate was off the latch. A roll call revealed that one prisoner was missing, but the next morning the unsuspecting truant was found fast asleep in a cell properly locked. In, nobody having noticed his return.

The explanation turned out to be that one of the prisoners was actually authorised to go out at night because his duties which included buying of food for the prison in the early morning necessitated this concession.

Being a "good sort" and moreover perhaps afraid of the envy of his fellow-prisoners, this man provided them, one by one with latch keys.

Everything went well till one prisoner, drinking too freely, did not get "home" till five o'clock on the very morning the policeman had made his fateful discovery.

When the truant's pockets were searched, entry tickets to a popular dance evening were found.

Guernsey belongs to Britain, where the prison wardens are blamed by the public for laxity, and a strict enquiry into their conduct has been ordered by the Home Office.

However, as no evil consequences had been reported in two years, prison reformers claim that the whole affair proves their case.—Transocean News Service.

Ladies Hockey

SHANGHAI— 2
HONG KONG— 2

No decision was reached in the Interport Ladies hockey match between Hong Kong and Shanghai played on the K.C.F.C. ground yesterday afternoon the final score being a draw of two goals all, even after extra time had been played.

The game, witnessed by a large crowd of spectators, was very exciting and up to a minute from the final whistle the Colony were leading 2-1, when Miss Mary Sheridan scored the equaliser for Shanghai. No further goals were registered in the extra period of play.

At the conclusion of the match, Mrs. T. E. Pearce, President of the H.K. Ladies Association, presented mementos to members of both teams, and flags were exchanged by the respective captains.

A full report of the match by "R.H.B." is given on page 10.

Bronze Statue In Taiyuanfu

Dr. Kung Declines Honour

Nanking, Feb. 12.

Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Finance and Vice-President of the Executive Yuan, to-day declined to accept the honour of having a bronze statue set up in Taiyuanfu in recognition of his good road movement and other work for that province.

The Finance Minister modestly stated that whatever he did for Shanxi was his duty, while the actual planning was in the hands of the provincial authorities. Dr. Kung, who is a brother-in-law of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, is a native of Shanxi.

Because General Chiang Kai-shek refuses to relinquish the presidency of the Executive Yuan, Dr. Kung is mentioned as his successor.—Union News.

ST. JOHN'S AMBULANCE BALL

Over Four Hundred Attend Brilliant Function

H.E. THE GOVERNOR AND LADY CALDECOTT PRESENT

Distinguished European and Chinese personages, doctors, nurses and the general public, totalling over 400, were present at the St. John Ambulance Brigade Annual Ball held at the Hong Kong Hotel last night.

This annual function, which is listed among the leading Colony social gatherings, was a brilliant success and for the success attained no small measure of praise is due to the talented artists, who contributed an excellent cabaret programme, and, more especially, to the untiring efforts of the organisers of the Ball both in official capacities and those behind-the-scenes helpers.

Everything that could be done was done unstintingly to provide patrons with a bright and cheerful evening, packed with entertainment, good cheer, fun and jollity. The function was voted even more successful than any previous Brigade Ball, and that is in itself a worthy tribute.

The occasion was graced by the presence of His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, K.C.M.G., Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, and Lady Caldecott, His Excellency the General Officer Commanding, Major-General A. W. Bartholomew, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., Rear Admiral C. G. Sedgwick, R.N., Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith (Colonial Secretary), His Honour the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl and Lady MacGregor, Wing Commander W. A. K. Dalzell, Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington (President of St. John Ambulance Association), and Mrs. Wellington, Hon. Sir Shou-son Chow, Hon. Dr. Li Shu-fan, Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Mr. V. M. Grayburn and Mr. Tang.

Reconstruction In Kwangtung

Canton.—A report on political reconstruction in Kwangtung has been made by Mr. Tseng Yang-fu, Mayor of Canton, to the Municipal Government.

In order to regenerate the nation, he said, we must consolidate the national strength, and in order to alleviate the plight of the people, we must redouble our efforts at economic reconstruction.

The Kwangtung provincial programme of reconstruction includes three projects, Mayor Tseng said.

Firstly, communications will be improved, so as to facilitate traffic with the neighbouring provinces of Kwetchow, Yunnan, Kiangsi and Fukien.

Secondly, industrial development will include the expansion of the Iron and Steel Works and the Hydraulic Plant at the Yung River.

Thirdly, methods of rice cultivation will be improved. The present annual harvest of 50 million piculs of rice over a total area of 35,000,000 "mows" in this province is insufficient to meet the requirements of a population of 30 million. By utilizing waste lands and improving the system of irrigation, the rice output in Kwangtung can be increased by 20 to 30 per cent. Only thus can the problem of the people's livelihood be solved.—Yuo Min.

"Rededication Of Our Nation To God"

The Bishop's House
Hong Kong
12th February, 1937.

(To the Editor, "Hong Kong Daily Press.")

Dear Sir,—I shall be grateful if you will allow me space to say a word at this time to readers who are members of the Church of England.

The Archbishop has appealed for a rededication of our nation to God in this year of the crowning of a new King; that we may share his dedication of his life to his people and his God.

In the hope that I may be able, by God's help, to be of some use to those who desire to share in this national rededication, I shall preach in the Cathedral at morning and evening service on all Sundays in Lent (and similarly at St. Andrew's throughout May).

I shall also be glad to discuss further any points raised: For men from 12.45 p.m.—2.30 p.m. each Monday in the Christian Book Room Club above the Shanghai Commercial Savings Bank, No. 6, Queen's Road. (Light lunch will be available at this discussion meeting for those who wish it). For women, at the weekly Helena May meetings on Fridays at 10.30 a.m. If a sufficient number (of men or women) whom these times do not suit, desire it, and let me or Mr. Baines know they desire it, I will arrange after evening each Sunday a similar meeting in the Cathedral Hall.

To-morrow is the first Sunday in Lent and the special sermons will begin then and continue over the six Lenten Sundays. The subject throughout will be "The Heart of Religion." In the belief that the heart of religion lies in the Gospels and in the Person of Jesus Christ, I shall endeavour to share such knowledge as I have of the Gospels and such love as the Lord Jesus has given me for Himself and for His God.

RONALD HONG KONG.

While on the I.R.C. I wish to take this opportunity of congratulating A. Baker, their second eleven all-rounder on his century last Thursday, when playing for Mr. F. M. el Arculli's XI against an Army XI. Baker made 104 not out and his runs came as the result of very pretty and correct cricket. To revert to the games to-day, however, Craigengower meet the K.C.C. who should win while the Club take on the Civil Service and they too ought to have an easy time. The English Press are playing the Chinese Recreation Club and a good game should result.

So far as the second teams are concerned, the K.C.C., I.R.C. and H.K.C.C. ought to beat the C.B.S., University and Civil Service respectively.

Soccer

(BY JAY MARTIN)

The result of the Interport encounter between Hong Kong and Shanghai raises several points for football enthusiasts to discuss. At least it bore out my prediction that Shanghai would be successful but I had put great faith on the young bloods from the North. Their play was typical of the sort featured by the Sportif Francaise in the Shanghai League. The bustling play and long passes of the visitors were a good example of the style of the Northern leaders.

Hong Kong, on the other hand, showed up rather poorly against the spirited play of their opponents who kept the game fraught with excitement. The local side was persistent with their attacks but Shanghai's sporadic raids bore more fruitful results.

JACK WARD'S DISPLAY

It would be rather difficult to pick out the outstanding player of Thursday's game but Jack Ward delighted the huge crowd with his centre-half play. At no time was Lee Wai-long free to display his usual prowess, so closely was he watched by the Shanghai pivot. Jack Ward took every advantage of his height to put his head to the ball whenever the occasion arose and his passing proved efficient enough to set his forwards going.

De Boissezon's display between the sticks revealed that he is a goalkeeper of fair qualities. This custodian showed a complete confidence of his own ability to hold the ball every time it came his way and he possessed a cool-headedness which is an asset to any goalkeeper.

SHANGHAI'S BACKS

Shanghai's skipper, Louis Marcal, proved himself a capable leader on the field and the understanding between him and de Boissezon was a happy link of strength in the Shanghai defence. Vital played a bustling type of game and, while he tackled the opposing forwards cleverly, he was apt to throw discretion to the winds in leaving a gap on his side. However, Marcal took every advantage of his experience to cover this young player's mistakes.

Collet in the forward line was a better player than Collet in intermediate rank. Those who saw him play in previous Interport matches will agree that he is now less efficient. He appeared to be trifle slow on the go but succeeded in pulling off a number of neat clearances which justified his inclusion on the Shanghai side. Cochran, on the left wing, did not show up brilliantly but he went about his play quietly and worked very hard.

STRONG FORWARD LINE

Shanghai's forte was in its forward line which broke through every time opportunity offered itself. Right-winger Foyon not only possessed speed with the ball, but also an efficient kick. He had the knack of coming off better in his clashes with the Hong Kong defenders and his persistent inclination to run in from the wing line served to give the local custodian plenty of worry. Belinsky, despite the reputation he earned at the Interport trials in Shanghai, did not show up to the mark.

The combination between Robustoff and Bossuet was responsible for several dangerous moments before the Hong Kong players. These two players displayed speed with forceful breaking through of the opposing defence and were never slow to use their feet when the occasion arose. Jim Ward, while not so brilliant as Foyon on the opposite wing, played soundly throughout. He was somewhat starved on the wing line and was not able to give a better demonstration of his ability.

HONG KONG'S SHOW

Hong Kong's team was, on the whole, somewhat disorganized and there was an almost complete lack of understanding between the players. They dilly-dallied too much instead of adopting their opponents' methods of simply crashing through the defence before taking a shot. Too many opportunities went astray with the Hong Kong players attempting long shots, all of which went wide of their marks.

After Shanghai's display on Thursday, it is the consensus of opinion that the visitors will again be successful when they meet the Chinese representatives at Caroline Hill this afternoon. One or two of the reserves will be seen in action but this should not affect the team at all.

The only senior division game scheduled for the week-end is the encounter between St. Joseph's and the Navy, at Causeway Bay tomorrow. I hold rather radical views concerning the outcome of this match and rather think that the Navy will succeed against their opponents only after an evenly fought game.

Following are the fixtures for the week-end:

TO-DAY

Interport Series
Shanghai v. Chinese.—Caroline Hill, 3.30 p.m.

TO-MORROW

Interport Series
East China v. South China.—Caroline Hill, 3.30 p.m.

First Division

St. Joseph's v. Navy.—Causeway Bay, 4.15 p.m.

Hockey

(BY R. H. B.)

The main attraction on the hockey programme for this afternoon is the meeting between the Shanghai Ladies and the Rest of the Colony. The match will be played on the Club ground, Kings Park, at 4 p.m. and should be well worth watching. The Rest attack is in the capable hands of Miss E. Hamon, of the Royal Ulster Ladies team, who has scored many goals this season both in friendly and in Brawn Cup matches. She will be supported on her right by Miss F. Wong, a very speedy winger, and Miss Maureen Booker, and on her left by Miss P. Gittins, who played for Hong Kong against Shanghai in the North last year, and Miss Dor's Hunt, of the C.B.A. The intermediate line comprises a strong trio, Mrs. L. Silva, Miss M. McCaw and Miss Olive Peters. Miss McCaw showed up very well in the trial match against the Colony XI a few days ago at Sookunpoo where she held a good check on Mrs. Donald, Miss B. Pope (captain) and Miss Joan Smalley are safe at back with Mrs. Lunson in charge of the citadel.

On Monday, at Sookunpoo, the Y.M.C.A. Ladies, undefeated champions of the Caer Clark Cup League, will be opposed to the Shanghai Ladies. The champions will be without Mrs. Sybil Gardner (nee Dalziel), the Interporter, who is away from the Colony on her honeymoon. This will mean a distinct loss to their forward line. However, the team includes Miss A. Fowler, Miss M. Westcott, Miss M. Smith and Miss O. Dalziel, all of whom played in the Interport match yesterday. In Mrs. Read they have a good leader in the attack while the performance of Mrs. J. L. Stephens in goal will be watched with interest as she was most promising in the trials and in the match when the champions defeated the H.K. Ladies H.C. a fortnight ago. Messrs. Guest and McCormick have been appointed to referee the match.

The Central British Association men's team are doing remarkably well in the Marnak Tournament where they are leaders in the "A" Division. To date they have played six matches and won them all and have an excellent goal average. But their victory over the 24th Battery on Thursday was not as clear cut as one might have expected it would be. In fact, the C.B.A. came very close to defeat. The intermediate line was weak, Norman Whitley, as pivot, having to do practically everything. Tom Whitley and S. MacNider were safe at back while Jimmy King was ever alert between the sticks.

HONG KONG VICTORY

Interport Rugby In Shanghai

Shanghai, Feb. 11.
Hong Kong's Interport rugby fifteen triumphed over Shanghai to-day, 14-3, after a brilliant performance.

On an ideal ground, Shanghai opened with a rush and for the first ten minutes completely dominated play. However, in the Colony's first rush into enemy territory, at the fifteenth minute, Grieve made an opening by cutting through and passing to Chadwick, who dodged the last defender and alighted across the goal line at the flag. Watson failed to convert, hitting the post.

Shanghai, still full of fight, equalised through P. K. Stewart in the twenty-fifth minute, but Blackwood did not add points.

After thirty-three minutes of play, Watson scored on a reverse pass from Chadwick. The try was not converted.

At half-time the score was 6-3.

HONG KONG AGGRESSIVE
With the resumption, Hong Kong was even more aggressive than formerly. Bidwell was outstanding, making several long runs. However, it was not before twenty-five minutes of fast, hard, open play that Deane broke through the defence and enabled Walkden to score in the corner. Watson did not convert.

In the final minute of the game, Bidwell capped a splendid performance with a zig-zagging run through a broken field, and scored between the posts. Watson converted. Bidwell, Whitham, Grieve, Chadwick, Butcher and Deane were outstanding for the hard-working Hong Kong side.

THE TEAMS

The teams were:

Hong Kong:—
J. P. Whitham (full-back); K. A. Munro, W. E. Grieve, H. D. Bidwell, G. K. Chadwick (three-quarters); A. H. E. Butcher (Vice-captain) (fly-half) and J. L. Bonnar (scrum-half); A. F. Walkden (Captain), W. E. Peers, E. P. Humphrey, (front-row forwards), I. H. Bradford and A. W. Holden (second-row forwards); B. O'M. Deane, K. A. Watson and J. A. Redman (wing-forwards).
Shanghai:—
E. C. Blackwood, P. Bliz, J. Bowerman, Gordon Brown, J. F. Burford, Lt. J. R. Cole, A. M. Kennedy, F. A. O. Mayne, I. M. Macrae, G. S. McGill, W. D. Pearson, W. H. T. Fitcher, R. H. Roe, D. H. Stewart, R. P. J. Stewart, and A. G. White.

M.C.C. MATCH

Canberra, Feb. 11.
The match between the M.C.C. and a New South Wales Country Eleven was concluded shortly after tea to-day. In reply to the tourists' total of 380, the Country Eleven had lost one wicket for one run yesterday when stumps were drawn. On resumption the score was advanced to 137 for nine wickets at lunch, and the whole side was out shortly after the interval for 162.

Kelly was top-scorer with 49, while Ames appeared in the unusual role of bowler, taking three wickets for nine runs. Following-on, the home side found Copson in deadly form. Bowling into a strong wind, and appearing to swing in sharply, the fast bowler returned the fine figures of seven wickets for 16 runs, and was primarily responsible for the dismissal of the Country Eleven for 78.

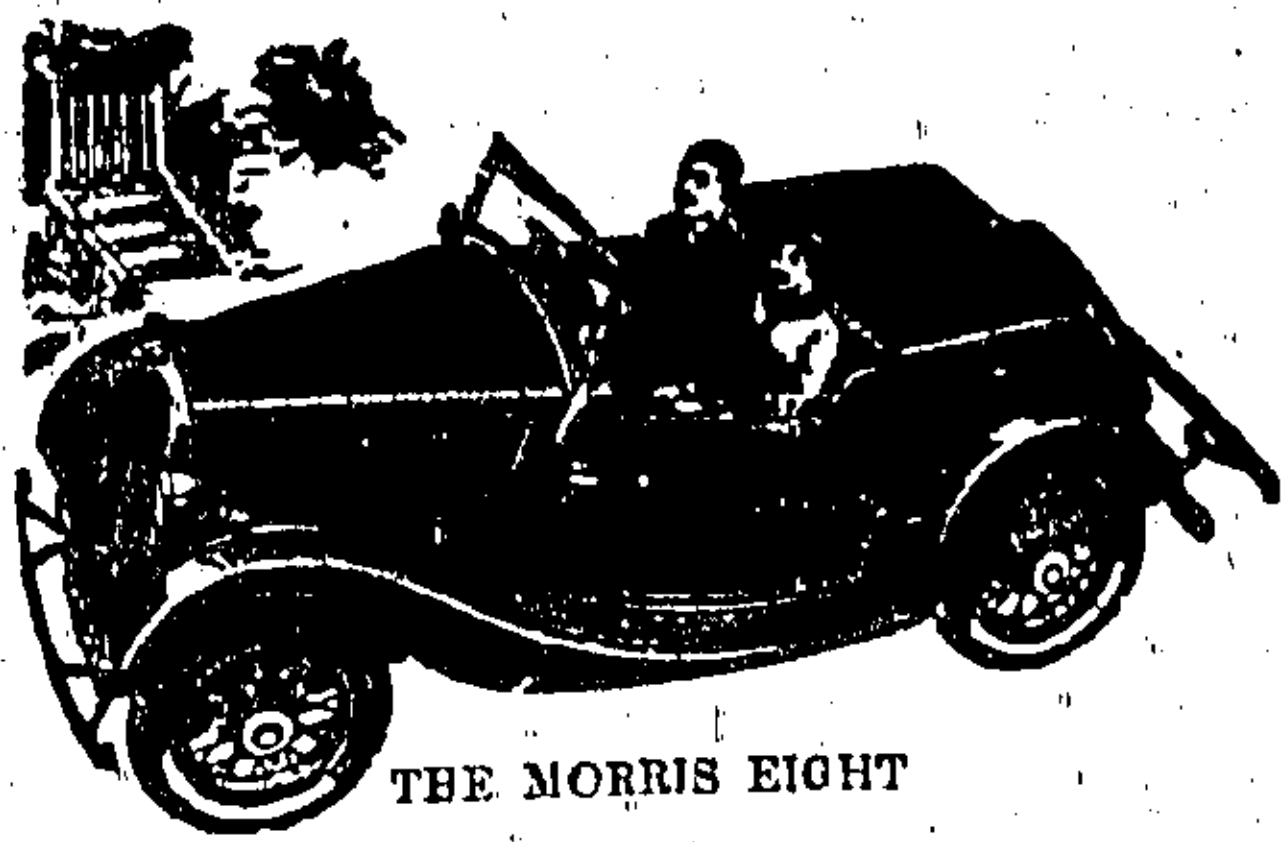

The M.C.C. thus won by an innings and 140 runs.—

RELIGION: PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL

The Story Of The Church

I—The Chosen People

(BY SCRUTATOR)

The history of God's chosen people as outlined in the Old Testament, covers a minimum period of thirteen hundred years. While essentially a religious history, it is a national history as well, for it is impossible to conceive of the Jews as anything but a religious people, for the basis of their experience and the constant inspiration of their national consciousness is the religious conviction that they are 'chosen,' 'set apart' among the nations and people of the world. The hope of the Gentile world is in them, in their national expansion after the advent of their Messiah. That their Messiah should come had been the burden of prophetic message for centuries; that he should set up a kingdom was the only conceivable reason for his advent.

Now there were two different conceptions of the nature of this kingdom, current among the Jews when Jesus was born in Bethlehem. There was the belief that God's kingdom would be set up upon earth as the Jews had always dreamed, and that all nations would bow before the power of a perfected Israel. This conception was brightest at all times of national stress, but it eventually came to be superseded by a deeper and more spiritual belief. The apocalyptic writers who lived in the two centuries immediately preceding the birth of Christ, pictured a heavenly kingdom existing beyond the grave which was to be the reward of all faithful Jews.

Both these conceptions were common in the time of Jesus, and along with them there existed a hundred pious hopes and national religious ambitions. But Jesus had to shatter these dreams—these compensatory phantasies of his little much-martyred nation. His understanding and proclamation of the Kingdom of God was so utterly different from anything his people expected that they were unable to believe him. For them it was to be a racial triumph, with Jesus, race had simply nothing to do with it. The Kingdom of God is within you, he preached. It was not a political kingdom available by right of birth or conquest, nor any racial exclusiveness, nor yet was it a kingdom beyond the grave. It was a spiritual kingdom—a timeless life in time—to achieve it the individual had only to have a completely new attitude to life.

II—Repentance

Repentance is a Christian word; the significance of Jesus' word has very largely been lost. 'Metanolen' it was, and it meant a changing of attitude, a reorientation of character and motive. The individual who experiences it, while still outwardly the same, is essentially different. Jesus took up the burden of this demand from John the Baptist and made it the compelling motif of the message of the Kingdom he preached. The nature of that Kingdom, as we have seen, did not meet with the expectations of his people. Jesus undertook no schemes of national reconstruction; he raised no army, against Rome; his main was in all respects far other than Israel had dreamed of in her Messiah. In the first place he did not proclaim himself Messiah before all the world. He rigorously shunned publicity whenever it was righteously possible for him to eschew it, and yet the claims which he made publicly were such that, to the mind of the faithful Jew, only Messiahship could justify. His ethical teaching superseded not only the teaching of the Pharisees but the Mosaic law as well. He asserted, that was to many of his countrymen, simply an unproved priority over Moses and the prophets. "Ye have heard it said by them of old time... but I say unto you..." These words introduced many of his revolutionary principles and never failed to arouse a demand for the quotation of his authority, and Jesus had no authority but his own heart, his own experience and knowledge of God. He demanded the recognition of the supreme value of the individual from minds that habitually conceived of life in terms of the nation; he proclaimed conditions of life, forgiveness and love and freedom, which were only of value as they were individually experienced. The first result of true repentance was a knowledge of this forgiveness and this knowledge issued in a new freedom—freedom from the thralldom of the law, freedom to love in acknowledgement of a higher authority. (1. Cor. xv. 56, 57) The Kingdom of God, far from being composed of only orthodox perfect Jews, was not even a fellowship of saints; its members were simply those who had repented, who knew themselves to be the children of God, who had experienced that reorientation of character and motive which made them look for their inspiration and help and self-fulfilment to their communion with one another and with God. The fullest significance of repentance is contained in the Beatitudes. They proclaim the blessedness of all those states of being which the worldly-minded generally consider evils, poverty, sorrow, meekness, hunger and thirst, persecution, peace-seeking at the expense of personal aggrandisement—these were to be the valuable experiences, nay the necessary ones, for those who would enter the Kingdom of God. Love of God and of all men was the only possible orientation for such acceptance, and such love did Jesus preach, demand, and give.

In his 'Outline of History' H.G. Wells has written truly: "In view of what Jesus plainly said, is it any wonder that all who were rich and prosperous felt a horror of strange things, a swimming of their world at his teaching?... In the white blaze of this Kingdom of his, there was to be no property, no pride and precedence; no motive indeed and no reward but love. Is it any wonder that men were dazzled and blinded and cried out against him?... Is it any wonder that the priests realised that between this man and themselves there was no choice, but that he or priestcraft should perish?... For to take him seriously was to enter on a strange and alarming life, to abandon habits and control instincts and impulses, to essay an incredible happiness... Is it any wonder that to this day this Galilean is too much for our small hearts?"

WAY OF THE CROSS

It being the 15th anniversary of the coronation of the Holy Father Pius XI yesterday, the Way of the Cross was observed at the Roman Catholic Cathedral at 5.30 p.m. followed by the exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, Te Deum and Benediction. Many of the devotees attended.

THE PAPAL FLAG

The Papal flag, which was seen flying from several of the Congress ships which visited Hong Kong, is the flag of the Vatican State. It is officially recognised by all the nations since 1929, when the Treaty of the Lateran, between the Holy See and the Kingdom of Italy, ended the difficult "Roman Question." The flag is of white and yellow, in two equal parts divided vertically, and bears on the white part the seal of the Vatican State, consisting of the tiara, or triple crown, and crossed keys. In the flag that is flown at sea the seal is usually omitted.

Two days ago, February 11, was the eight anniversary of the signing of the Lateran Treaty.

The day is always celebrated in Rome, both outside and inside the Papal State, for the Italian government has never ceased to declare that this Treaty has been one of the happiest of its successes. It is interesting to note that in all the references to the Treaty made by the Italian Government, it lays stress on the point that the Treaty is a recognition of the fact that religion is a matter for states as well as for individuals, and that it has proved from experience that it is to the interest of the state to work with, rather than against, religion.

The Vatican State is one of the smallest in the world, for it comprises only 109 acres, with 450 inhabitants, as His Holiness the Pope insisted that he wanted only as much territory as would secure his independent action. The necessity of such an independent state is obvious when it is realised that the Pope commands the spiritual allegiance of over three hundred million subjects, who are closely organised and all in close relation with their spiritual head.

LENT

We are now in the Lenten season. It began a few days ago with Ash Wednesday, and tomorrow is the first Sunday of Lent. The name "Lent" gives no indication of the meaning of the season, for it comes from an Anglo-Saxon word for spring, and was merely applied to it because of the time of the year in which it occurs. Intended as a time of preparation for the Christian people, the commemoration of the sufferings, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, it extended gradually during the first few hundred years of the Christian era. Originally—records go back to the second century—there were only two days of immediate preparation for Easter, the two preceding days, Good Friday and Holy Saturday, and it was the custom of the early Christians to abstain from food, and even from drink, during those two days. Then the period was extended to a week, and towards the beginning of the fourth century it was lengthened to forty days, in memory of the forty days which Christ spent in fasting in the desert. As Sundays are not included among days of fasting, the beginning of Lent was put four days earlier in the seventh century, and ever since that time Ash Wednesday has been the first day of Lent.

In various ways the Catholic Church emphasises the solemnity of the Lenten season. Its official prayers and music take on a particularly solemn tone, and the colour of the vestments used at the Lenten ceremonies is purple, by which it symbolises penance. There is no solemn celebration of marriage during this period, and any marriage that takes place during Lent is very simple in character. It is for that reason that in many Catholic countries the period just before Lent is the most popular time for marriages.

Records Will Return To Scotland

Edward I, tyrannical conqueror of Scotland, stripped his vassal realm of many of her prized possessions, including the Crowning Stone of Scone, which have never been returned. Among the plunder which left Scotland were many ancient documents. By the terms of the Treaty of Northampton (1328) between Edward III and Robert Bruce, these documents should have been returned, but this has never been done, despite repeated representations throughout the centuries.

THREE SMART GIRLS

The wisdom of the children shall be visited upon the father, even to his great consternation. That, to twist the tail of a memorable quotation, is the theme of Universal's comedy drama, "Three Smart Girls," which has its run at the Alhambra Theatre to-day.

Three daughters, learning that their millionaire father is about to slip into the matrimonial net of a fortune hunting international beauty, hasten to save their parent from a foolish entanglement.

The girls use desperate remedies to correct the situation and the unexpected results are highly amusing. They employ a foreign nobleman to win the money seeking beauty away from their father. One of the girls disappears in order to delay the wedding ceremony and finally the sweetheart of another sister tricks the gold grabbing dandy into boarding a steamer for Europe.

The fun is swift, the dialogue brightly written and the action merrily paced, declare advance Hollywood reports. Deanna Durbin, the new radio discovery with the lovely soprano voice, makes her screen debut in "Three Smart Girls." Leading roles are played by Bonnie Barnes, Alice Brady, Ray Milland and Charles Winninger, remembered for his role of Captain Andy in "Show Boat."

Deanna Durbin's sisters in the picture are played by Nan Grey and Barbara Read. Other prominent players include Mischa Auer, John King, Lucille Watson, Nella Walker and Hobart Cavanaugh.

Deanna Durbin sings three songs in "Three Smart Girls." The numbers are classic "I Bacio," "My Heart is Singing" and "Someone To Care For Me."

Henry Koster directed the film from the screen play by Adele Comandini and Austin Parker.

THAT GIRL FROM PARIS

To taste the fruits of success as an opera star or enjoy ecstasy in love's retreat, is the problem facing Lily Pons, the renowned diva, in her second starring musical comedy, "That Girl From Paris," which has its run at the Queen's Theatre to-day with Gene Raymond and Jack Oakie in other starring roles.

The diminutive singer plays the title heroine who deserts her manager at the altar and pursues a handsome young American to his country. Here she encounters a series of hectic experiences which lands her in jail, into love with two men and finally into marriage with one of her suitors.

Miss Pons presents to motion picture audiences the widest variety of music ever brought to the screen in one feature. She sings three popular songs written by Arthur Schwartz and Eddie Heyman, she "swings" Johann Strauss' "The Blue Danube Waltz" to a brilliant new arrangement, she sings "Tarantella," and to top it all off, she renders the beautiful aria, "Una Voce Poco Fa" from "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini.

With Raymond, Oakie, Bing, Mischa Auer, Frank Jenks, Lucille Ball and Vinton Haworth, Miss Pons is surrounded by a highly versatile cast. Nathaniel Shilkret directed the music, and Andre Kostelanetz, famed radio conductor, supervised the songs. Miss Pons sings. Leigh Jason directed "That Girl From Paris," an RKO Radio picture.

A huge gambling syndicate that stops at nothing, a phantom killer who strikes with an unseen hand, poison foam and a devilish infraction that slays with the speed of light menace Charlie Chan as the famous sleuth faces the greatest odds of his career in "Charlie Chan at the Race Track." Twentieth Century-Fox Picture, which opens at the Queen's Theatre, to-morrow.

Hailed as the most thrilling and chilling Charlie Chan picture ever brought to the screen, Warner Oland again plays Earl Derr Biggers' wily detective, with Keye Luke, Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Alan Dinehart and Gavin Muir also featured in the cast.

The film opens with a roar of excitement at the Melbourne race track in Australia where Avalanche, the odds-on favourite, loses the sweepstakes through the operations of a huge gambling syndicate. Chan is called in to investigate the case by the horse's owner. When the boat docks at Honolulu, Chan goes on board to find the turfman dead—kicked to death by Avalanche.

Chan uncovers evidence that establishes the fact that it is not an accidental death but murder. When the boat leaves Honolulu for Los Angeles, Chan is on board—trailing the killer.

Avalanche is entered in the $100,000 Santa Juanita Handicap, but Chan discovers that the horse has been switched with another thoroughbred. The gambling ring is plotting a huge clean-up!

Chan delves deeper and deeper into the case, and the day of the big race the gamblers kidnap the sleuth, intending to hold him captive until the handicap is run.

By a clever ruse, Chan outwits his captors and arrives at the track just before the big race. With the aid of his son, Keye Luke, Chan creates a furore at the track and in the resulting excitement, restores Avalanche to his true colours.

The horses leave the post in a burst of speed—and as they round into the home stretch, the killer strikes again!

Faced with the most baffling case of his career, Chan races neck-and-neck with death to the finish line—in a climax that's the most exciting and thrill-packed of all the Charlie Chan adventures. H. Bruce Humberstone directed "Charlie Chan at the Race Track," with John Stone associate producer.

FOREIGN STATIONS DISTURB BERLIN STATION EXPLAINS

We have recently been informed by a number of listeners that the broadcasts of the German Shortwave Station have been disturbed by foreign stations. In the large majority of cases we received news of the disturbance several weeks after it had been noticed, so that a direct test was no longer possible. As has already been explained, the wave-lengths or frequencies selected by the different countries for their shortwave programmes are fixed by international agreement. Should disturbances caused by any foreign station interfere with the reception of the German Shortwave Station, the disturbance station must, according to the international rule, be informed of the disturbance, which constitutes a violation of the World News Treaty. The disturbances must be definitely located by the control commission specially appointed for this purpose. This is thus the important point. The disturbance must be reported as far as possible immediately it has been noticed, so that it may be located. A belated report makes it necessary for the station to be observed for days or even weeks, this frequently giving rise to difficulties.

It is above all important to ascertain the name of the disturber, or at least the call-sign. This having been ascertained, we request listeners to inform us of the disturbance, if possible by telegraph, at the following address: "Funküberwachung, Reichspostzentralamt, Berlin."

It suffices if the telegram states simply: "To-day's broadcast DQ disturbed by station X."

The stations in question will then be observed immediately from here, and their frequency measured, since it can happen that the frequency of the disturbing station has altered for some reason or another, and that this is the cause of the disturbance.

The disturbance having been definitely located, a remedy must be found according to the rules prescribed by the World News Treaty, one clause of which states: "The frequencies defined for all fixed broadcasting stations and other broadcasters by the controlling authorities, also the prescribed highest range, must be registered at the union office if the stations in question provide a regular broadcasting service and are in a position to cause international disturbances. The frequencies must be so selected as to avoid as far as possible disturbance of the international services of the treaty countries, broadcast from existing stations, whose frequency has been registered at the union office. According to the regulations, the registration must be made before the frequency is employed, and early enough to allow the authorities time to undertake all the measures considered necessary to ensure satisfactory service."

According to these regulations, and since all frequencies used by German stations are registered at the union office for Germany, the disturbing station must be apportioned another frequency. It must be reckoned that the elimination of a disturbance requires a considerable period of time. When it has been ascertained which station is responsible for the disturbance, the station or the broadcasting company must first be informed. If an agreement is not reached, and the disturbing station does not give up its frequency, the necessary steps must be taken by way of the government of the country in question.

Every remedy of disturbances by foreign stations depends — this point must be stressed once more on the disturbance being immediately reported to the Broadcasting Control of the German Central Post Office, whenever possible by telegram, since letters generally reach us too late and the search for the disturbing station takes too long.

SWING TIME

A sensational solo dance in blackface by Astaire, in "Swing Time," will be showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with the presentation of the newest ballroom rage, the Swing Waltz. A star-spangled supporting cast and a brand-new type of story for Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, plus six of the catchiest melodies of Jerome Kern's career, are among the attraction elements of the

EUROPEAN ROBBED

River Boat Theft

Chan Chu was sentenced to two months' imprisonment by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy for the larceny of a suit case containing six parcels of sausages, nine tins of sardines and two tins of tomatoes, the property of Mr. Yofel Jaffrick.

Inspector Hourihan said that Mr. Jaffrick was getting ready to disembark from the s.s. Kinshan upon her arrival here on February 10, and had packed his belongings. Upon coming out of the cabin he found that one suit case was missing and saw defendant carrying it away.

Defendant was arrested. Mr. Jaffrick was not present in Court as he left for Shanghai the same evening.

Theft At Taikoo Refinery

For the theft of 21 gunny sacks from the Taikoo Sugar Refinery, Lau Fong, 28, unemployed, was sentenced by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday to three months in gaol.

Mr. A. Kellar, wharfinger of the Taikoo Sugar Refinery, appeared as complainant.

Inspector O'Connor prosecuted and informed his Worship that defendant was seen carrying the sacks in King's Road and upon being questioned, admitted the theft. Defendant said that he gained admittance into the Refinery by climbing over the wall.

GAMBLING CHARGE

Brought before Mr. E. Himsworth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, Chin Hol, 40; Wu Ching, 42; and a woman, Ho Ying, 43, who was the principal tenant of No. 95, Kwelin Street, were charged with keeping a common gaming house, and, together with nine others, with gambling on Tuesday last.

First and second defendants were fined $25 or one month's imprisonment for the first charge, and were cautioned for the second, while third defendant was also fined $25 for being the principal tenant and knowing that gambling was going on in her house and not stopping it. The rest were fined $3 each. The sum of $5.10, which was found on the table, was ordered to be donated to the poor box.

No More Gretna Green

The committee which has been examining the problem of Gretna Green and other irregular marriages in Scotland has now, I hear, made its report to the Secretary for Scotland, Mr. Walter Elliot, writes a Home correspondent.

Presided over by Lord Morison, the Scottish Law Lord, the committee spent more than a year on its task.

I gather that one of the principal recommendations will virtually mean the end of the picturesque ceremonies "over the blacksmith's anvil" at Gretna Green.

The committee has been particularly impressed by the evidence brought before it showing that many of these weddings were never registered afterwards by the contracting parties.

One of the two women members of the committee was Mrs. Thomas Johnston, wife of the Scottish M.P. who was Lord Privy Seal in the last Socialist Government.

hilarious musical romance, "Swing Time."

Love affairs and complications feature the story plot, with Astaire endeavouring to rid himself of a haughty fiancée, Betty Furness, so that he can marry Miss Rogers, at the same time trying to discourage a glamorous orchestra leader, Georges Metaxa, who also has matrimonial designs on G'nger.

Victor Moore, and Helen Broderick, teamed together as one of the funniest troupers ever to reach the screen, head the supporting cast as a pair of well-meaning but often embarrassing matchmakers, who innocently provide many of the complications, and much of the comedy of the film.

A glittering aerial night-club of mirrors and chandeliers, moored to the tower of Manhattan's tallest skyscraper, forms one of the breath-taking settings of the production.

BAG SNATCHER CAUGHT

Police Reservist Commended

Kwok Lam, a 31-year-old tinsmith, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday charged with snatching a handbag from Lam Wai-man, a nurse, of the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital on February 10.

Inspector Logan, in charge of the case, said that the complainant came out of the hospital about mid-day on that day and noticed defendant passing her, and then coming back. When he got abreast of her he snatched her bag and after a short struggle managed to run off with it.

R325, Cheung King-cho, who happened to be passing at the time, ran after defendant and after a short chase caught him.

Before he was caught, defendant managed to take out the contents of the bag which included $2.74 in Hong Kong currency and 80 cents in Canton money, besides miscellaneous articles, which he trans-

The First Battalion Inniskilling Fusiliers will have the opportunity renewing old acquaintances when they pay a temporary visit to Hong Kong on March 5. They will be under canvas at Fanling for a month before returning to Singapore. The 'Skins' had quite a good record on the soccer field when stationed in Shanghai last year, and they will probably engage in a few friendly fixtures during their sojourn here.

FIGHTING OFFICER

Lieutenant Gough, who holds the Army Heavyweight Boxing championship (Officers Class) is due to arrive in the Colony next month. This will be his first visit to Hong Kong, and knowing his enthusiasm for the "noble art," I feel sure he will create renewed interest in local boxing circles.

THE DOUHET DOCTRINE

National Security And A Powerful Air Force

(BY AIR COMMODORE L. E. O. CHARLTON.)

Last week I had occasion to mention the Italian general Giulio Douhet, bracketing him with "Billy" Mitchell, late of the United States Army, as examples of air enthusiasts considerably ahead of contemporaneous thought. It now occurs to me that many readers may not have heard extensively of Douhet or that, alternatively, few are well acquainted with the bold doctrine which he put forward in numerous papers and, notably, in his book "Air Supremacy," published in 1921. His opinions had, and still have, a wide influence internationally on the development of air power, and because strategic truths, like old soldiers never die, I propose in this article to describe in condensed form the main tenets of his philosophy.

Mitchell was fortunately able to put proof to his principal thesis in his own lifetime and, by sinking the Ostfriesland, demonstrate at any rate that navies had now a new rival at sea. But Douhet, who has also passed on, was not so privileged; and that chiefly because a major war was necessary before the world might stand convinced. And yet of the two it is the latter's thought which will live the longest, because he dealt all-embracingly with war, staging it in the sky, and not with a single phase thereof, as when a third dimension is concerned with the other two.

A word about the man himself. Soon after Italy took sides in the war Douhet scandalized his superiors of an older school by referring to the aeroplane in a written order as a weapon, thus placing it on all fours with the sabre, the bayonet, and the field piece. Later on he was "stellen-bosched" for persistently claiming that complete strategic independence was the only right and proper usage for aircraft in the field. But after Caporetto, when ad lib. "de-gumming" was resorted to by the new broom in authority, he was dug out and given command of an aviation group. One is able to detect a forceful and original personality.

These were his main points. Firstly, he demanded for the sake of national security an air force as powerful as the limits of expenditure would allow, to be absolutely independent of both other arms. Secondly, this air force must be the primary arm of defence. Thirdly, the role of the air force would be to act offensively while army and navy maintained themselves strictly on the defence. Fourthly, and as corollary to the foregoing, most of the available money should be spent on the air, the other two Services having only enough for the minimum establishments necessary to secure them from defeat at the hands of the corresponding forces opposite.

CANNOT FORESTALL AIR ATTACK

Douhet added the following arguments in support of his revolutionary doctrine. It is not possible, he said, to forestall air attack, and neither naval nor military power can operate to prevent it. Effective attack of that sort, therefore, independently of army and navy, could compel the surrender of an enemy Power. In the case of land warfare, he pointed out, owing to the immense power of the defence, victory can only be assured by the employment of vastly superior force; and he instanced the equislope which existed on every entrenched front in the Great War as the inevitable outcome of that one ruling condition—the supremacy of the defence. But in the case of air attack, he insisted, this situation is actually reversed, because of the impossibility of any real defence against it.

UNIVERSAL APPLICATION

No country, he maintained, could hope for equal strength in all three arms, nor would such condition be desirable even if finance permitted. It would mean unwieldiness and divided counsel. Logically, then, a country should be strongest in that arm which can produce decisive results, namely, the air. For the air is of universal application, able to attack the enemy by land and sea, and more important still, to bombard selected objectives behind the perimeter of the defence.

Joined to the main clauses of the doctrine were the following riders. The abolition of co-operative aircraft either working with an army in the field or with the fleet at sea and, in addition, the suppression of all night aircraft. The argument in these two cases was that the existence of such auxiliaries would equivalently reduce the strength of the independent force, which must always be maintained at maximum; and that in the case of fighters, being unable to prevent a bombing raid, they serve no useful purpose.

In conclusion there is the question of protection against air attack to be considered. This, the doctrine lays down, should be provided by the organization of every form of anti-aircraft ground defence known to science and concentrated at vitally-important centres, the safety of civilians being reasonably assured by masks, protective clothing, and by the construction on a massive scale of gas, fire, and bomb-proof shelters. Finally, aerodynamic research should in future be devoted to increase of range so that less and less of an enemy's territory shall remain inviolable.

AIR SUPREMACY ESSENTIAL

Douhet was assailed by a drum-fire of criticism, his rejoinder being embodied in these terms. Military and naval success, even if complete, will be of little worth if the victor's territory is not immune from air attack, and therefore the necessity for air supremacy remains. Opposing air forces might

GENERAL GOUGH

PREMIER YIELDS

Case To Be Reconsidered

At last Mr. Baldwin has yielded to the appeals of the friends of General Sir Hubert Gough in and out of Parliament, to reconsider the case of the Commander of the Fifth Army. Recently he told a deputation consisting of Sir Ronald Ross, M.P. (C), Mr. E. J. Williams, M.P. (Lab.), and Major Gwilym Lloyd George, M.P. (L.), that he was prepared to re-examine the General's case.

What the General's friends want is that formal reparation shall be made to him for the censure, now admitted to have been unjustified, passed upon his handling of the Fifth Army in the retreat of 1918. Last November Mr. Baldwin flatly refused to reopen Sir Hubert Gough's case because he thought history's vindication of him was sufficient atonement for the wrong done him in 1918.

THE ORIGINAL REFUSAL

A statement issued after the interview said:

"This afternoon the Prime Minister received a deputation consisting of Sir Ronald Ross, M.P., Mr. E. J. Williams, M.P., and Major G. Lloyd George, M.P., who asked him to re-examine the question of recognising the services of General Sir Hubert Gough. The Prime Minister, in reply, indicated his willingness to reconsider the case."

Mr. Baldwin is a stubborn man, but has had to give way to a strong public opinion both in Parliament and in the country which think that history's rehabilitation of Sir Hubert Gough might now be gracefully reinforced by some tangible act of reparation by the Government. If Mr. Baldwin did not contemplate some such act he would scarcely have gone back on his earlier decision.

Mr. Baldwin's original refusal to reconsider the General's case was given in answer to a question by Mr. Edward Williams on November 10. Mr. Baldwin said:

While fully appreciating the great services which General Sir Hubert Gough rendered in the war and congratulating him upon the fact that history has already vindicated his reputation, I do not think that at this distance of time the Government would be well advised to reopen the question of rewards for war services or to attempt to revise the decision taken by their predecessors.

Answering further questions, Mr. Baldwin spoke of the impossibility of making an inquiry into what happened in 1918, since those who would be the principal witnesses were dead. "I am quite sure," he added, "that if I were in Sir Hubert Gough's place to feel that my own conscience had been justified by the verdict of my fellow-countrymen would be ample reward for me."

certainly interfere with each other, but they could not by that means be prevented from achieving their purpose. For bombing formations to adopt such tactics would plainly be a waste of effort, as the nature of their enterprise did not in the least demand it.

One body of critics maintained that fighters were able to protect a country against bombing raids. To these Douhet replied that his entire doctrine was based on the contrary assumption and that if he could be proved in the wrong he would cheerfully and publicly recant.

Another stated that land or sea forces would be at a grave disadvantage should co-operative aircraft before an enemy possessing them. The reply was that separate equipments for the other arms was against the cardinal principle of concentration of force at the vital point and reducing to the strength of the independent air force with which lay the ultimate decision. If on account of this dispersal of effort or for any other reason a national air force should suffer defeat then co-operative aircraft were useless in any case, neither army nor navy being able to defend a country against an enemy in possession of the mastery of the air.

Such, in outline only, is the famous Douhet doctrine, which if examined critically will be found to be logically built up and not easy to demolish. The essence of it, however, remains as to the ability of the fighter vis a vis the bomber, a question which can be decided by full-scale experience. "United Services Review."

HONG KONG RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Full Membership Now Exceeds Five Hundred

Now that units of the Regular Army, with one or two exceptions, have returned from camp, it was only to be expected that the normal mid-week Spoon and Practice Shoots of the Association would show a great advance in the numbers attending, and this was adequately borne out yesterday afternoon, when in spite of the fact that every available target was brought into use, the firing-points were uncomfortably crowded, and shooting finished only a short time before darkness set in.

This shoot also marked the first appearance of members of the 1st Bn. The Seaforth Highlanders, and although some of the other units were unable to send their usual complement, it was difficult to provide all the target accommodation which was necessary.

Conditions on the whole were average; the light was good, while the wind was not too troublesome, but at the longest distance the light failed rapidly, with the result that those firing in the later details had to contend with haze, and very poor visibility.

In view of the fact that this was the first occasion upon which members of the 1st Bn. The Seaforth Highlanders had attended one of the normal shoots of the Association, it was decided that a special spoon should be given to the member of that battalion who made the highest "net" score with the S.R. (a) rifle, and as will be seen below, this was won by C.Q.M.S. Bradley. It will be noted that Mr. Sgt. A. Codd of the R.A.O.C., who is attached to this battalion, made an aggregate score equal to that of the winner of this particular spoon. The handicap spoons in this Class were won by L/Cpl J. Clarke and Rfn. McBride both of the 1st Bn. The Royal Ulster Rifles, and the fact should not be overlooked that had a spoon been awarded for the "net" score made with the S.R. (a) rifle, L/Cpl. Clarke would also have won it.

In the S.R. (b) Class, Major B. B. Edwards of the Royal Engineers won the "net" spoon with a score of 97, while Rfn. J. J. Stewart of the 1st Bn. The Royal Ulster Rifles, won that awarded for the highest handicap aggregate. It is noteworthy that Mr. A. J. Hall, a member of the Financial Adviser's Staff at Command Headquarters, shot for the first time with a .303 rifle using the aperture sight and sling, and made the remarkably good score of 93, although this was the first occasion upon which this member had ever fired on the open range. For many years past, Mr. Hall has been an enthusiast as regards shooting on the miniature range, and this striking result should not fail to impress those who, at times, are apt to become sceptical, as regards the real value of "miniature" shooting.

Another record has been made by the Association this week, since the individual full membership, after allowing for those who have left the Colony, now well exceeds the five hundred mark. This is chiefly due to the fact that during the past few days, nearly sixty members of the 1st Bn. The Seaforth Highlanders have joined as individual full members, while other additional applications are expected in the near future.

We are asked to state that there will be no week-end shooting on Saturday next, or on Sunday, owing to the difficulty in obtaining the necessary markers, and the transport required for them, to and from, the Naval range at Stonecutters.

The leading scores made yesterday afternoon are as follows:—

DEATH DUTY PROBLEM

Houston Will Still Missing

Was Lady Houston domiciled in Jersey or England? The answer to that question means much to the Chancellor of the Exchequer for, if her domicile was in England, the State will receive death duties to the extent of about £1,000,000.

The late Sir Robert Houston claimed Jersey domicile, but when he died the British Government claimed £3,000,000 Death Duties on his estate of £7,000,000.

Lady Houston, without admitting liability, offered £1,500,000 as an act of grace, and this was accepted. She had not lived in Jersey for several years, but her home there was left in the hands of caretakers.

Domicile has been held to be the place where a person chooses to make his home with the intention of residing there permanently.

If Lady Houston is held to have been domiciled in the United Kingdom there will be a windfall for the Exchequer, since the Death Duties on estates of more than £2,000,000 are at the rate of 50 per cent.

STILL MISSING

In the house in Hampstead in which Lady Houston died a member of the staff of Messrs. Nicholson, Graham and Jones, her solicitors, is still searching for her will. Search is also being continued at

Brilliant Bating By Bakar

An undefeated innings for 104 runs by A. Bakar featured the friendly cricket match at Sookupoo on Thursday between Mr. E. M. el Arculli's team and an Army XI, the former winning by 11 runs. Bakar was at the wicket for just under two hours and scored 18 boundaries.

Mr. Arculli's XI—201 for 3 dec. (A. Bakar 104 not out, K. Nazarin 31 and A. R. Abbas 30).

Army XI—180 (C. Q. M. S. Eaton 67).

Talk-And Live Long!

A French physician at Nice has just explained that nothing does more to promote a healthy old age than a full and constant use of the lungs.

This inspires a train of thought, stimulated all the more because we know how particularly prevalent is talking in Hong Kong.

What carries off old people so steadily as respiratory complaints, and what better fortification can there be than lungs of brass? Nature, which is wiser than man, has accordingly implanted in the old the desire to instruct the next generation, and it does not really matter whether the advice is acted upon or not. What matters is that it shall be given, and given loudly and often.

How providential it is that at the end of a long life the quietest liver has plenty to recollect and relate, and the seeming paradox that those whose time is shortest seem in the least hurry to come to their points is now revealed in a more intelligible light.

The very old are preparing for the most suitable form of exercise when they prattle about their clubs with buttonholing looks. It is the young who lack any excuse for copious speech and who are rightly told to shut up. They cannot plead that they are aiming at longevity, and if they do they cannot expect sympathy. But the elderly can say, "Let me go on talking that I may go on living," and at once the man who is trying to melt away through the door becomes a kind of murderer, and has to sit down once again.

It used to be thought that Mr. Gladstone owed his splendid old age to the thirty-two bites a mouthful; but it would now seem that it was all that he said in 1884 and all the other years that had quite as much to do with it. The law, the ministry, the seats of learning, these are the homes of long life, and it is not accidental that they are all callings which tax the lungs in the course of daily work.

It will be interesting to test the impartiality of our friends of ZBW by seeing what publi-

MISTAKE OVER A STYMIE

Penny Used As Inch Measure

A penny played an important part in the golf match between Oxford University and Woking last month.

Having no measure to determine the question of a stymie—under 6in is not a stymie—T. A. Bourn, a former English champion and runner-up for the British title, used a penny, in the mistaken belief that its diameter was 1in.

As five pennies placed together covered the distance between the balls he concluded that this was 5in and the stymie rule did not apply. He picked up his ball to concede a halved hole.

The diameter of a penny is, however, 1 1/4in. The distance, therefore, was 5 1/4in and the stymie rule should have operated.

If this had been known, N. S. Mitchell-Innes, the Oxford captain, and his partner, J. C. Lawrie, would have had to play with the balls as they were and Bourn's ball, which was hanging on the lip of the hole, might easily have been knocked in. As this was the 17th hole and the sides were level, a correct measurement might thus have given Bourn and his partner, Capt. C. G. B. Stevens, the match.

In cases where players do not carry a score-card, which usually measures 6in, a halfpenny, the diameter of which is 1in, is often used to decide the question of a stymie.

city they give to a scientific discovery which makes of broadcasting a thoroughly unhygienic invention to which the old should never be asked to listen in silence.

Mechanical music in place of singing, reading to oneself instead of following the robust Victorian custom of reading aloud, these things are not progress but part of the dance of death! Indeed, the whole business of literacy becomes rather suspect, for nothing keeps old men quieter than knowing how to read and write, to the consequent detriment of their essential lungs.

But the wideawake telephone publicity department will not be slow to seize on the new argument, proving that even bed-ridden centenarians can build up their health by sustained and loud long-distance calls.

It is very well known that women live longer than men, and now we know why.

There is a poetic justice in the physical penalties of secretiveness, so that those who do not enter into the spirit of contemporaneous existence, who say nothing they would mind being published, who tell reporters they have no statements to make, and who keep themselves to themselves, are quickly destined for those quiet vaults in which they can practise all their grim, un-social arts to the full. But the quakers and braggards and munificent contributors to the common pool, the men and women who rejoice to be the life and soul of the railway carriage, the holders-forth, and the open souls who gladly share the whole of their past lives—these shall live.

They have shown an eager and appreciative spirit, and it is right that the extra length of days should go to them.

Many heads have been shaken over the decline of public argument in England, and the way every one retires into himself with a book or paper reflecting what he feels already. All this may pass, if the doctors give the word. They may not give it, for their whole tradition is to treat speech with care, as the golden thing they have made it in their own case. But if they encourage a loosening of the flood-gates of repressed reflection and recollection, how greatly will the firm thoroughfares of Hong Kong be transformed.

As for the transformation in the clubs, lounges, the Legislative Council and the Urban Council—the prospects are overpowering!

MORRISON'S ACADEMY

Gift Of An Old Boy

Morrison's Academy, Oriel, which has benefited by the munificent gift of £70,000 from Mr. John Smith, is one of those numerous Scottish institutions which owe their foundation to self-made Scots with a passion for education.

In 1820 a former Chief boy called Thomas Morrison died in Edinburgh, leaving a fortune made from building.

In his will he left a sum of money for the erection of an institution which would serve "to promote the interests of mankind and to preserve the memory of his own good intentions."

It took his executors 40 years to interpret his intentions. Morrison's Academy, opened in 1860, was the result.

"Wee Macgregor's" School. The school, situated near Gallow Hill, where more Highland marauders have been hanged than in any other part of Scotland, has a fine record for scholarship.

In the same district is Drummond Castle, the ancestral home of the Earls of Perth and of Sir Eric Drummond, the British Ambassador in Rome.

Morrison's Academy has provided Scotland with numerous professors, including Henry Drummond. But its most famous old boy is the late J. J. Bell, the immortal author of "Wee Macgregor"—a book which started the Scottish craze for tam o' shaners seen every second year at Wembley during the Soccer International invasion.

Mr. John Smith, the donor of the £70,000,000, is himself an old boy and will be known to smokers as the creator of the well-known "Glasgow Mixture."

RIBBENTROP AT FOREIGN OFFICE

London, Feb. 11.

Herr von Ribbentrop, the German Ambassador, had a conversation lasting nearly two hours with Lord Halifax, acting Foreign Secretary, at the Foreign Office today.

The Ambassador returned to Britain early last week after an absence in Berlin since just before Christmas, and although it is customary for an Ambassador, after a long absence, to meet the Foreign Secretary, it is generally agreed that to-day's call was more than a mere courtesy visit.

The only statement which transpired is that there was an interchange of views upon topics of mutual interest and that Herr von Ribbentrop was able, as a result of his recent visit to Berlin, to indicate the German Government's views thereon.

Maersk Line's New Motor Ships

Modern Cargo Vessels For New York-Manila Route

Two new and modern motor ships are to fly the Danish flag for the Maersk Line from New York to Manila and return, according to information issued recently by Melchers and Company, Ltd., agents for the line in Singapore. The m.v. Grete Maersk, recently launched at the Vulcan Dock in Bremen where she was built, will sail from New York on the first passage of her run to the Far East on April 10 and should arrive in Shanghai about May 23.

The second of the two new ships will be placed on the same run, at a later date. When the Grete Maersk arrives in Shanghai in May a celebration will be held on board to which representatives of local shipping circles and press representatives will be invited.

The vessels will be primarily used for carrying cargo from the United States to the Far East and back again but are fitted out with comfortable passenger accommodation for twelve people, in four double rooms and four single.

Capable of making sixteen knots while fully loaded, the vessels contain strongrooms with a capacity of 6,150 cubic feet of bales, silk rooms, and refrigerated spaces where a temperature of 10 degrees Centigrade can be maintained. Each vessel also contains deep tanks with a total capacity of 3,000 tons of oil, and the deadweight of the Grete Maersk is given as 9,220 tons on Lloyd's Summer Freeboard.

Von Ossietzky A Prisoner Of The Gestapo

It is now evident that Carl von Ossietzky, the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize is being detained in Germany not because the state of his health makes him unfit for travel (it demands, rather, that he travel to a mountain sanatorium) but because the German authorities fear that he might speak or write about his experiences once he is across the border. He is, in fact, a prisoner in the hands of the Gestapo, and there is no certainty at all that he will not be sent back to a concentration camp.

No sooner was the Nobel Prize awarded to him the treatment of the prisoners in the camps became worse. There can be little doubt that this was an act of reprisal on the part of the German authorities.

There is a widespread belief that the camps are fewer in number and that the treatment of the prisoners has improved. According to a German official statement which appeared at the beginning of the year in the "Berlin Weekly," a periodical which is published with official sanction for the enlightenment of British and American visitors to Germany, there are now six camps with 3,781 inmates, of whom 3,694 are political prisoners, the rest being ordinary criminals.

The truth is that the following camps still exist:—Dachau, Sachsenburg, Lichtenburg, Sulza, Weismann, Fuhlsbüttel, Sachsenhausen-Nordbahn, Brandenburger, Vulkanwerft-Stettin, Götterszell, Oranienburg (the old camp at Oranienburg was dissolved and the new one has been completed and is now used). To these must be added the six separate concentration camps (including the notorious camp at Boergermoor) which are grouped together at Papenburg. There are also two concentration camps for women—Moringen and St.

George's Hospital, Leipzig. The Columbia House at Berlin, which is formally a remand prison, is really a concentration camp. The women at Jauer, in Silesia, also serve as a concentration camp for women suspected of subversive political activities. Beyond these there is a number of small camps where prisoners who are engaged in special labour are housed.

In all, therefore, Germany now has 21 main concentration camps. The total number of inmates is not known to the outside world. But that total is certainly many times the officially admitted figure. There are about 2,000 prisoners at Dachau alone. The camp at Sachsenhausen is being enlarged to accommodate 3,000 prisoners.

All the inhumanities for which the German concentration camps have been notorious from the beginning still continue.

BRITAIN'S ARMAMENT LOAN PROPOSALS

Press Holds Different Opinions

"Daily Herald" Denounces The Decision

LONDON, FEBRUARY 12. THE GOVERNMENT'S £400,000,000 DEFENCE LOAN PROPOSALS HAVE HAD A MIXED RECEPTION BY THE PRESS. The "Times" declares there is nothing unexpected in the announcement. There is no cause for alarm on constitutional ground nor should the economic repercussions be serious. The amount to be borrowed is not likely to cause any undue strain on the national credit.

The "Morning Post" emphasises the need for retrenchment in other directions.

Describing the loan as "paltry," the "Daily Mail" declares that the Government should have stipulated for at least a thousand millions sterling. The paper asserts that Germany is spending 1,200 millions sterling yearly on armaments.

Britain's armaments bill in the next five years is likely to be about £1,400 millions sterling and possibly the income tax will be increased in the coming budget by between three pence to nine pence, states the "Daily Express."

DECISION DENOUNCED

The "Daily Herald" denounces the loan decision. The paper says that it will place a much greater part of the burden on the working man by increasing the cost of living and a strenuous effort must be made to force the Government to adopt a positive foreign policy which will render this expenditure unnecessary.

The "News Chronicle" declares that the Government's decision is wrong in principle. The loan will help to drive up the cost of living, and increase the likelihood of a speculative boom, to be followed by a sharp slump in trade.

The paper urges that this year's borrowing should be kept to the lowest possible figure, though this would involve increased taxation.

FRENCH WELCOME

The announcement of the loan is welcomed in France where it is believed that it is an excellent thing that Britain is now looking to her own defences in order to be in a position to enforce peace, but it is regarded as disappointing that such expenditure is necessary.

BERLIN VIEW

Official circles in Berlin take the view that Britain is perfectly entitled to adopt the measures she thinks fit to strengthen her armaments.

The spokesman declared that just as Britain must arm for all eventualities so must Germany.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S STATEMENT

£400,000,000 Loan Proposal

LONDON, FEB. 11. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, replying to a question from Major Attlee, the leader of the Opposition, announced that a defence loan would be raised, which would be redeemable in thirty years and which would not exceed £400,000,000, to be spread over five years.

The Government, stated the Chancellor, proposed forthwith to introduce a bill authorising the raising of capital, or alternatively the use of any realised budget surpluses, for defence purposes.

Provision would be made for redemption of the debt within thirty years.

The general experience of the last twelve months, said Mr. Chamberlain, in no way relieved the urgency of our heavy task nor lightened the cost of raising our forces to a proper standard of defensive strength.

Defence expenditure was growing at a pace which makes it impossible to meet it entirely from revenue.

Mr. Chamberlain expressed regret that he was unable to state the exact sum which would have to be spent in the five years which completion of the rearmament programme would require.

The Chancellor again emphasised the necessity of control of the Treasury over expenditure, and explained that the authority sought would not authorise the defence departments to spend money.

The whole of the proposed defence expenditure would have to be sanctioned by Parliament.

MARKET TAKES NEWS CALMLY

Redemption Period Much Too Long.

LONDON, FEB. 12. Mr. Neville Chamberlain's statement regarding the methods of financing the rearmament programme forms the principal subject of discussion in the city, where a feeling of relief is expressed that the doctor at least has told the patient the worst.

The gilt-edged securities market, which is the most sensitive to any changes in monetary policy, took the news calmly, the prices recovering some of to-day's early losses. Nevertheless the long-term outlook for Government securities, though causing no alarm, is regarded in an unfavourable light.

It is pointed out that the prospects of increased taxation, which is in no way minimised by the Chancellor's statement, may possibly lead to shifting of investments to other and more profitable fields. Furthermore, the vast armaments expenditure is bound to lead to accentuation of price inflation which the Government can only hold in check by means of interest level.

The main criticism to the scheme is directed against the length of the thirty-year redemption period which is held to be at least ten years too long since the effective life of modern armaments is so small.

VOLUNTEERS FOR SPAIN

Labour Questions Lord Cranborne

LONDON, FEB. 11. The leader of the Opposition, by private notice, questioned Lord Cranborne in the Commons on the progress of the Non-Intervention Committee regarding prohibition of "volunteers." The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs after recalling the terms of the communiqué issued last night by the Committee, said: "I should like to make it clear that His Majesty's Government fully share the anxiety which is felt in all parts of the House that a fully effective system of prohibition and supervision should be established with the least possible delay. I can assure Mr. Attlee they have done and will continue to do their utmost to this end."

Mr. Attlee asked: "Is it not a fact that while these long-drawn-out discussions are taking place the Italians are pouring men into the south of Spain?"

Lord Cranborne replied: "What is clear is that while there is delay which we all regret there are numbers going in on expediting the proceedings of the Committee."

Challenged to show that the Non-Intervention agreement was not complete, the Foreign Under-Secretary rejoined: "It has prevented the war from spreading outside Spain."

INSURGENTS REPEL ATTACK

Clearing Up Operations In Malaga

LONDON, FEB. 10. An insurgent radio message from Avila states that a fierce attempt to dislodge them from their positions at Vacia near Madrid, commanded by the Valencia road, was made by Government troops, who, supported by tanks and artillery, attacked in three waves—twice in the morning and once at nightfall. The attackers were repulsed with great losses.

Another message, from Malaga, reports that the Nationalists on the Malaga front were to-day engaged in clearing up the province and that they occupied Patanillas and Cartama.

The Madrid Defence Council denies that the road between the capital and Valencia has been cut by the insurgents, but it admits that part of the road has been heavily bombed.

The British naval authorities are willing to assist refugees to return to Malaga, as well as to transport foodstuffs for the starving inhabitants.

Munitions Factory At Pretoria

Cape Town, Feb. 11. The Union Government has started a census of the nation's war materials. Important measures in this connection are the signature of an agreement with Imperial Chemical Industries for the erection of a munitions factory at Pretoria, capable of producing ten million rounds of machine-gun ammunition annually for the use of the whole of British South Africa, and the formation of a War Supplies board to discover what can be manufactured within the Union during times of war and peace.

The Board will also plan, in consultation with the General Staff, how mobilisation should be conducted in war-time so as not to paralyse the civil population.

The British Government has undertaken to supply the Union with one hundred modern Hawker and Hart-Beeste fighting aeroplanes at £200 each, which is less than one-twentieth of their value, for delivery before April, 1938.

The South African Air Force is building another hundred planes under licence.

SPANISH COAST CONTROL

Plan Discussed In London

LONDON, FEB. 11. The sub-committee of the Non-Intervention Committee to-day continued to discuss the control plan for Spain, particularly that part of the plan which refers to the control of the Spanish coast by foreign navies.

Among those attending the session was the German Ambassador in London, Herr von Ribbentrop. The Committee, according to informed quarters here, agreed that Soviet Russian warships should participate in the control of the Spanish coast although several delegates declared that their respective governments were emphatically against this line of action. It is also declared that the proposal to divide the Spanish coast into several sections, each of which was to be controlled by the navy of one of the foreign powers participating in the plan, was approved by the Committee.

The Portuguese reply to the Committee's control plan proposals, it will be recalled, to the effect that the Portuguese navy should be permitted to participate in the naval control of the Spanish coast is given the same privilege.

The naval control, it is said, will be carried out in such a way that a report must be made to the Committee if any ship, flying the flag of any of the powers taking part in the plan, should enter any Spanish port without a certificate from the Committee that the ship in question carries neither war materials nor volunteers.

THIRD PLENARY SESSION

Important Gathering At Nanking

Shanghai, Feb. 12. The stage is all set for the third plenary session of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee which is the most important gathering in the history of the Kuomintang. General Chiang Kai-shek, Chairman of the Military Affairs Commission and concurrently President of the Executive Yuan, will remain here under medical treatment until Sunday night when he will proceed to the capital by train.

CANTON CHIEF

Well-informed circles here believe that all the personnel for the coming reorganised National Government was fixed by General Chiang recently at Fenghua. During his present stay here, General Chiang will not receive any callers, mostly seekers of high offices.

The leading provincial military chief to attend the plenary session in Nanking next Monday is General Yu Han-mou, Commander-in-Chief of Kwangtung provincial forces who will arrive here to-morrow morning aboard the German liner Gneisenau. Other officials travelling from Canton on the same vessel are Mr. Liu Wei-chi, Provincial Commissioner of Reconstruction, and Mr. Tseng Yang-fu, mayor of Canton.

KWANGSI LEADERS

Nanking, Feb. 12. Considerable speculation is aroused over whether Generals Li Tsung-jen and Pei Chung-hai, Kwangsi leaders, will come to the capital for the Kuomintang gathering, although it is reported that General Huang Hsu-chu, Chairman of the Kwangsi Provincial Government, is on the way.

As a member of the standing committee of the Military Affairs Commission, General Pei Chung-hai has to remain in Nanking most of the time.

Several official reports released here stated that the two Kwangsi generals will come to the capital, but they are not yet confirmed by dispatches from Kwelin. The Kuomintang session will deal chiefly with appointment of several ranking posts.

HOPEI-CHAHAR VIEWS

Tientsin, Feb. 12.

Mayor Chin Teh-chun of Tientsin will go to Nanking this afternoon by train to attend the third plenary session of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee to be held on next Monday. He is to represent the views of the Hopei-Chahar Political Council, although legally each member of the C.E.C. attends in his own capacity.

Mr. Chin's visit to Nanking is significant, for in the past days it was reported that the Hopei-Chahar Political Council would have nothing to do with the Kuomintang meeting.

General Sung Cheh-yuan, chairman of the Council, is still sojourning in Tientsin and will not go to Nanking for the Party conference.

SHENSI SITUATION

Shensi, Feb. 12.

Having occupied this provincial capital of Shensi, the Nanking troops will not advance farther to pursue the Communist and reactionary forces. No further move will be made until after the third plenary session of the Kuomintang Central Executive Committee.

It is learned here that the plenary session will make a political compromise with Generals Chang Hsueh-liang, Yang Hu-cheng and Miao Tse-tung, recalcitrant military commanders.

Lieut.-Gen. Sun Wei-jui, former subordinate of General Yang Hu-cheng, has undertaken to assume the chairmanship of the Shensi Provincial Government shortly.

Lieut.-Gen. Ho Chu-kuei is negotiating with General Ku Chu-tung, G.O.C. Nanking troops in Shensi, with regard to the future disposition of the troops under General Chang Hsueh-liang. Ho is a division commander under Chang and distinguished himself in resisting the Japanese along the Great Wall.

Thrilling Hockey Match

Hong Kong And Shanghai

Share Four Goals

Last-Minute Goal For Visitors

Misses Fowler And Dalziel Shine

(BY R.H.S.)

THE THIRD ANNUAL LADIES' INTERPORT HOCKEY MATCH BETWEEN HONG KONG AND SHANGHAI WAS PLAYED ON THE HONG KONG FOOTBALL CLUB GROUND YESTERDAY AFTERNOON IN IDEAL WEATHER AND BEFORE A CROWD OF OVER 300 SPECTATORS.

The result was a draw of 2-2 even after extra time was called. The Colony led 2-1 until the very last minute of the game when Shanghai equalised through Miss Mary Sheridan, centre-forward. In the period of extra time exciting hockey was served and Hong Kong almost clinched the issue when Miss Marie Smith sent in a hard shot which Miss Laura Carion, the Northern custodian, only just managed to deflect.

At the conclusion of the match, the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, called upon Mrs. T. E. Pearce, President of the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Association, to present silver mementos to members of both teams and the captains, Miss E. M. Gray (Hong Kong) and Miss Esther Bloomfield (Shanghai) exchanged flags.

It was a splendid match, and every minute was thoroughly enjoyed. Both teams' defences won the honours of the day and curiously enough both sets of forwards were not very good though the Shanghai ladies combined with a better understanding.

The outstanding players on view were Miss Frances Bomko, right back for Shanghai, and Miss Jessie Wong, the Colony pivot. Miss Bomko saved her goal time and again with well-timed clearances and accurate hitting. Her keen anticipation and tackling were features of a display that will long be remembered by all who witnessed the match. It was, in fact, a repetition of her showing on her first appearance here in 1935, only better.

MISS WONG BRILLIANT

Miss Wong was brilliant and sent the ball out to her wings splendidly. But her work in this direction, especially with direct passes to Miss Olive Dalziel, right wing, was hampered by Miss F. Marsh, who, at inside-right, was too inclined to get in the way and deflect the ball instead of letting it go straight to the right winger. Miss Wong was a tower of strength in a steady defence and kept a good watch on Miss Sheridan, whose sweeping passes to her forwards, always called for careful stopping.

Miss Evelyn Vical, Shanghai's left back, while clearing very well often faltered with minor infringements but her main fault was "sticks" this being caused by her inclination to crouch too low when hitting the ball. Otherwise, her display was sound.

Miss Esther Bloomfield, right half for Shanghai, and Miss Pella Petigura, left half, gave good support to Miss Elsin Little, who, at centre-half, played admirably. Miss Little possessed a strong hit and kept the play open with her clearances.

Of the forwards, Miss Lotti Schmidt did good work while Miss Nora Kelly, on the right wing, was speedy but she hesitated too often before passing and thus many promising moves went astray. Miss Debbie Bloomfield, left wing, was rather slow.

Mrs. Margery Williams did her share in the attack.

MISS FOWLER SHINES

In the Hong Kong defence, Miss A. Fowler cleared well and featured her play with her usual strong hitting. At times she made the ball rise. Very able support came from Miss E. M. Gray and the pair proved a stumbling block to the Northern ladies' attack.

Miss Iris Woolley, at right half for the Colony, played a brilliant game in the first half but appeared to tire somewhat in the second half especially towards the closing stages of the game.

At left half, Miss K. Glover, was not up to her usual standard but nevertheless put in a good measure of splendid spilling work and this undoubtedly stemmed the force of the attack coming from the Shanghai right flank.

MISS DALZIEL ON FORM

Of the forwards, Miss Dalziel shone at right wing. She nearly always had the better of duels with Miss Petigura for the ball and put in some fine centres. She easily out-ran the Shanghai left half, Mrs. Donald, the leader of the Colony attack, was seldom in the picture while Miss Marie Smith was below standard. She passed the ball wildly at times and when in possession did not make the best use of her chances.

On the left wing, Miss Westcott showed splendid bursts of speed but she found Miss Bloomfield and Miss Bomko extremely difficult to beat.

Of the goalkeepers, Mrs. R. Rose (Colony) was much safer than Miss Laura Carion (Shanghai).

THE GAME

In the opening stages of the game, Hong Kong attacked but were repulsed. Miss Bomko and Miss Vical clearing splendidly. Play was transferred to the other end where the Colony defence held out and there was no score at half-time.

In the second half, Miss Sheridan scored to give Shanghai the lead. Shortly after, however, Miss Smith equalised and towards the end, Miss Smith put Hong Kong Kong ahead when she scored a good goal from a pass from Mrs. Donald. With barely a minute to go, Shanghai equalised when Miss Sheridan put the ball into the net following a melee in front of the Hong Kong goalmouth. Mrs. Rose only partly cleared the ball.

EXTRA TIME

Extra time was played and during the ten minutes that followed excitement reached fever pitch. First Hong Kong would go very close to scoring then Shanghai would give the spectators a thrill. Following a pass by Miss Dalziel across the Shanghai goal area, Miss Smith gained possession and took a first-time shot which Miss Carion got her pad to and deflected the shot.

The final whistle came with the score still 2-2.

The match was capably umpired by Messrs. G. T. Palmer and H. A. Osborne.

The teams were as follows:—
Hong Kong:—Mrs. R. Rose; Miss E. M. Gray and Miss A. Fowler; Miss I. L. Woolley, Miss J. M. Wong and Miss K. Glover; Miss O. Dalziel, Miss F. Marsh, Mrs. Donald, Miss M. Smith and Miss M. Westcott.

Among the spectators present were H. E. the G.O.C., Major-

General A. W. Bartholomew, Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, Sir Atholl and Lady MacGregor, and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pearce.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

At the conclusion of the match, Mrs. T. E. Pearce presented mementos to the members of Hong Kong and Shanghai teams.

Calling upon Mrs. Pearce to make the presentation, Sir Atholl MacGregor said: The last time that I had this very pleasant duty to perform was at the first Interport ladies match two years ago, which many of you will remember was played in a sea of mud. (Laughter). First of all I would like to congratulate those responsible for the arrangements in seeing that we had such a splendid day this afternoon. I would like to congratulate both teams on giving us a very excellent and extremely exciting exhibition of hockey, and if I may say so, I think that a draw is a much more satisfactory conclusion to such a splendid game. I would like to thank the Hong Kong Football Club for giving us the use of their ground and thank the two umpires who have not only performed so well but so gracefully. (Laughter). In conclusion, I would like to thank the organisers for the admirable arrangements they have made and especially thank Mrs. P. M. Harrop who has worked so untiringly and uncomplainingly. (Applause).

On the call of Mrs. Harrop three hearty cheers were accorded Mrs. Pearce, who reciprocated by returning a call of three cheers for Mrs. Harrop which met with hearty response.

TEA PARTY

A tea party given by the Hong Kong Ladies Hockey Association was subsequently held at the Gloucester Hotel when both teams were entertained. Mrs. Pearce was among those present.

MAMAK HOCKEY RESULTS

At the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday morning, the Argonauts defeated the Royal Corps of Signals by three goals to one in their "B" Division, Mamak Tournament fixture. The Signals put up a gallant fight, but mid-way through the second half, the Argonauts asserted themselves and ran out worthy winners.

Another Mamak game was played off yesterday at King's Park when the Nomads were held to a draw by H.M.S. Adventure in their "A" Division clash, both sides sharing two goals. R.C. Reed netted twenty minutes from the start, but late in the second half E.R.A. Stevens scored to give the Adventure a point.

At the Marina ground to-morrow, the Nomads will meet the Argonauts "B" for their Mamak Tournament encounter. The game is scheduled to commence at 10.30 a.m.

Though they won, the Association team were hard pressed and at the interval were in arrears by one goal to nil scored by the Battery's inside-right.

In the second half, G. H. Fowler and S. Fowler scored for the C.B.A., and in the closing stages the winners' citadel was constantly raided, J. J. King being responsible for some splendid clearances.

The Battery team's goalkeeper was in good form.

Club Hockey

The two-day tennis match between the Tungshan Garden Club, Canton, and the Kowloon Cricket Club, which commenced on Thursday, was brought to a conclusion yesterday, the visitors winning the fixture by 11 points to 10, thus reversing the result of two months ago when Kowloon won by the odd point.

The committee of the Kowloon Cricket Club arranged a very elaborate programme for the entertainment of the Canton visitors, the main item on the programme being the dance at the Clubhouse on Thursday night when members of the Shanghai Interport team also attended.

SHANGHAI WINS INTERPORT

LOCAL TEAM GIVES POOR DISPLAY

Chinese New Year Soccer Classic

In what proved to be one of the most exciting Interport games ever to be witnessed in this Colony, Shanghai narrowly defeated Hong Kong on Thursday in the eighteenth match between these two ports by the score of 4 goals to 3. Packed with thrills throughout, the game revealed the visitors in a superior form and the persistent tagging of Lee Wai-long, Hong Kong's star centre forward, by Jack Ward, the opposing centre half, was a feature of the game.

Although Hong Kong had the better of the play for the greater part of the time, Shanghai's sporadic attacks on the local goal-mouth were more fruitful. Foyn, Shanghai's right-winger delighted the huge crowds with his dashing play and effective kicking. De Boissezon's handling of the shots that came his way was a treat to watch and the understanding between him and Marcal, Shanghai's skipper, served to complete the defence link, the latter giving strong support to Victal who, young and inexperienced as he was, frequently foiled Lee Wai-long in his dash towards the Shanghai goal.

Hong Kong's play revealed several flaws in the team, Campbell being completely off-form. This player did not justify his inclusion in the local side, his passing being faulty. Lee Wai-long was, as ever, dangerous, but found himself too closely watched by Jack Ward. On the whole, Hong Kong's defence was weak while their forwards failed to take advantage of every opening that offered itself to them.

HUGE CROWDS

A dull day, ideal for football, was served up by the weatherman for this soccer classic, which was a feature of the Chinese New Year holidays. A huge crowd, estimated at approximately 8,000, packed the stands at the Navy Ground, Causeway Bay, to witness the clash between the two rival ports. Hundreds of other spectators even took positions on the hillside which offered them a distant but clear view of the game. Some excitement was caused by a little fire which broke out in the open stand on the north side of the field but ground officials quickly put out the insignificant blaze.

OFFICIALS ASSISTED

Sailors and Boy Scouts assisted the officials and very efficiently directed the crowds to their seats. Right up to the start of the game hundreds lined up in queues at the different entrances, seeking admittance. By kind permission of Lt.-Col. J. Muirhead, M.C., and Officers, the Pipe Band of the 1st Battalion of the Seaforth Highlanders presented an entertaining programme of pipe music under Drum-Major J. M. Wilkie and Pipe-Major D. R. MacLennan.

The referee was Sgt. Isley, R.E., and the linesmen were C.P.O. Smyth, R.N., and Mr. D. Kossick.

THE PLAYERS

The teams lined up as follows:—
Hong Kong:—Pau, Ka-ping; Lee Tin-sang and A. V. Gosano; Leung Wing-chiu, M. Campbell and R. Evans; Yeung Shui-yick, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-long (captain), A. Wilson and E. I. Bickford.

Shanghai:—de Boissezon; Victal and Marcal (captain); Collet, Jack Ward and Cochran; Foyn, Belinsky, Robostoff, Bossuet and Jim Ward.

HONG KONG WINS TOSS

Shanghai lost the toss and kicked off towards the Club house. Bossuet passed the ball to Foyn who ran down the side-line but was stopped by Gosano. Shanghai returned to the attack but Hong Kong broke away and Lee brought the ball towards the visitors' goal but Marcal cleared.

Hong Kong pressed hard but during the play Wilson handled the ball and a free kick was awarded to Shanghai. Shanghai fell into defensive play but the ball was cleared into the Hong Kong side of the field where Foyn was caught in an offside position.

Following a tricky play by Evans, Wilson wasted a kick by shooting high.

HONG KONG MISSES

Some midfield play took place, following which Yeung centred nicely but Boissezon cleverly caught the ball and clearly easily. A minute later Lee Wai-long broke through the Shanghai defence to sent in a low centre but Wilson missed badly. Hong Kong again came back when Bickford brought the ball into the Shanghai area but his pass went astray. Fung then attempted a long shot which went wide.

Yeung broke through on the wing and centred but Boissezon punched the ball out to safety. A minute later Evans took a free kick for "hands" against Shanghai but skied the ball over Lie bar. Shanghai launched an attack on the Hong Kong goal and Robostoff broke through on his own to beat Pau with a low shot. (Shanghai 1, Hong Kong 0).

LEE DANGEROUS

A few minutes after the replay, Lee attempted a long shot which was cleared safely. Following some tricky movements by Yeung, Lee sent in another dangerous shot which the Shanghai custodian again cleared.

Lee came near to scoring a minute later when he crashed through the Shanghai defence on the run but Victal cleverly brought him down for one of his team-mates to clear. There were several exciting moments after this as the visitors fought hard to stem back the Hong Kong attacks. Boissezon caught the ball in the air from a pass from Yeung and cleared neatly but a few seconds later was forced to concede a corner.

SHANGHAI SCORES AGAIN

Shanghai broke through again and Jim Ward put the finishing touch to the movement with a lucky shot as he clashed with Pau. (Shanghai 2, Hong Kong 0).

Foyn had a clear run down the sideline soon after the reply to beat the Hong Kong defence but his shot went wide. The visitors attacked again and this time Foyn broke through to beat Pau with a shot that hit the underpart of the bar in the corner of the goal. (Shanghai 3, Hong Kong 0).

The half time whistle followed soon after this.

HONG KONG'S FIRST GOAL

Hong Kong opened the second session by attacking immediately and a minute later Lee Wai-long broke through brilliantly with a shot that gave Boissezon no chance. (Shanghai 3, Hong Kong 1).

Hong Kong continued to press hard and a first time shot by Lee saw Boissezon catching the ball and falling on his face, but the Shanghai custodian got to his feet and cleared. A minute later Lee broke through again but this time he was ruled offside.

SCORE AGAIN REDUCED

Hong Kong further reduced the score when, following a glancing shot off one of the Shanghai defenders' feet, Wilson ran in to net the ball. (Shanghai 3, Hong Kong 2).

A minute later Lee spoiled a good movement by being offside. The resultant play saw Shanghai press on the Hong Kong goal but Bossuet skied the ball. A minute later Foyn took advantage of a break in the Hong Kong defence and sent in a difficult angle shot that entered the net. (Shanghai 4, Hong Kong 2).

LEE SCORES AGAIN

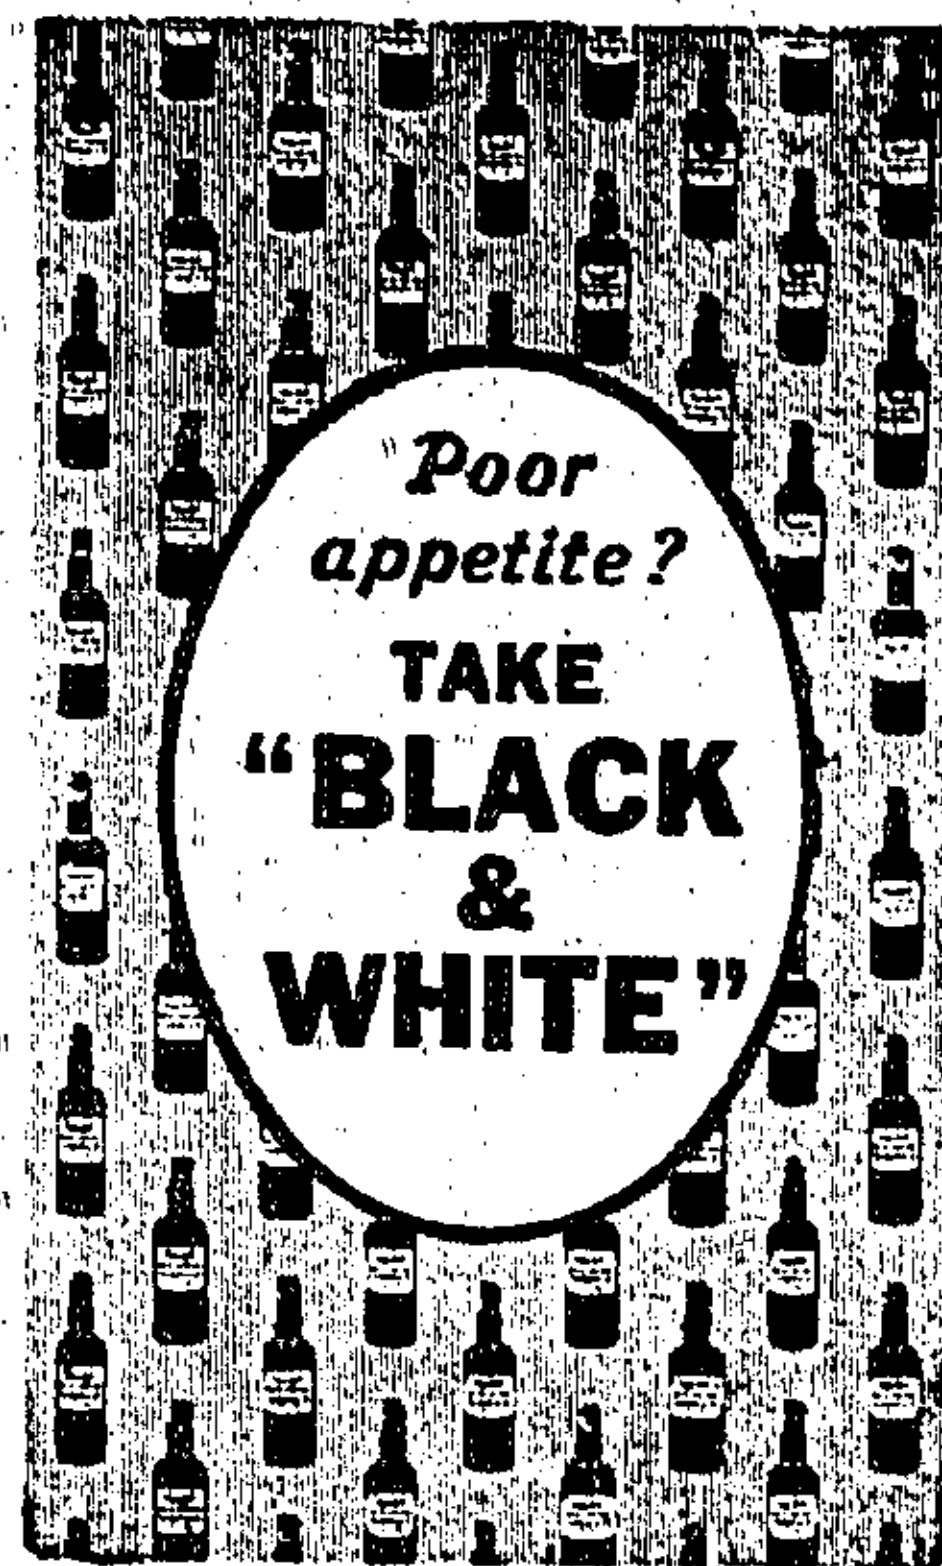

A period of midfield play followed during which both sides worked hard to get the advantage until a penalty was awarded Hong Kong for dangerous play by Belinsky in the Shanghai area, Lee Wai-long making sure with the resultant kick. (Shanghai 4, Hong Kong 3).

The last quarter of the game was fraught with excitement as the ball was swung back and forth down the field. Boissezon attempted to clear the ball during one of Hong Kong's attacks by throwing it to Marcal but a scrimmage ensued and the local team nearly came to scoring again.

SHANGHAI WORRIED

Lee attempted a break through and forced Shanghai to concede a corner but Hong Kong failed to take advantage of the kick. A minute later Bossuet took a first time shot which went over the bar. Yeung then brought on a moment of anxiety for the Shanghai defenders.

Hong Kong attacked strongly during the closing minutes of the game and just before the end Lee shot at an open goal but Marcal luckily put his foot to the ball and kicked it into touch. The final whistle blew sounded almost immediately after.

Leicestershire Cricket Club May Go

Cricket-Lovers learned recently with dismay that there is a possibility of the Leicestershire County Cricket Club going out of existence.

A special meeting of the club is to be held to consider the question of closing down.

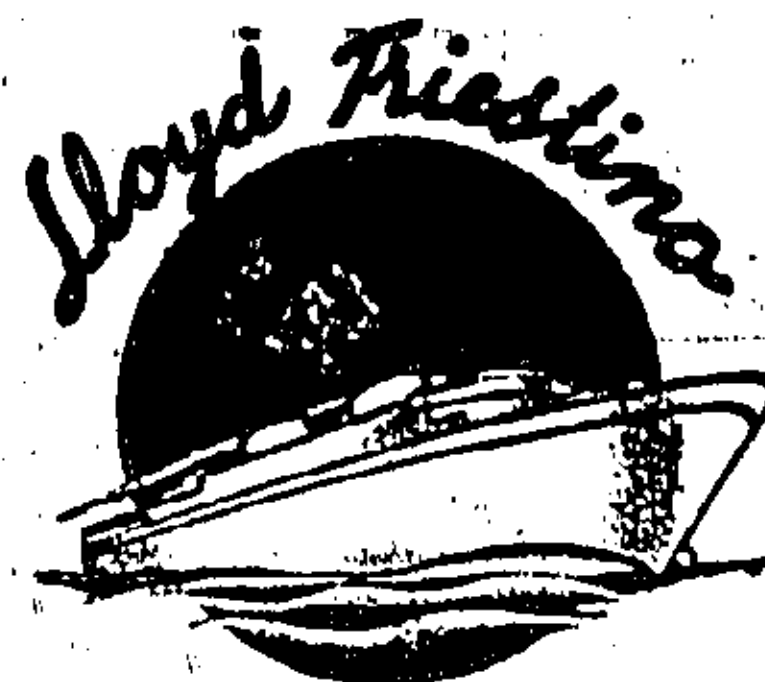

A meeting of the committee has passed following resolution:

"Owing to the unfavourable response to the letter calling attention to the lack of support for the club, and as there are no funds available the committee have with great regret no alternative but to recommend that the club be closed down."

The Leicestershire County Cricket Club have had many ups and downs.

Owing to various efforts and donations they were able to start last season with a balance in hand, but on account of bad weather and poor gates a loss of £2,300 was incurred on the season.

The Sea As Career

Prospects For Boys In Merchant Service

"Shipbuilding is showing some activity, and more laid-up ships are coming back into commission. It is expected that this improvement will be maintained during the next few years, and continuous employment and reasonable promotion should be obtainable by those cadets who prove themselves competent and have obtained good reports during their apprenticeship."

These words of encouragement appear in a pamphlet upon choice of the Merchant Navy as a career, issued by the Ministry of Labour. It is one of a series on the choice of careers compiled by arrangement between the Incorporated Association of Head Masters of Public Secondary Schools and the Ministry of Labour. It sets out concisely the two methods by which a boy can enter the Merchant Navy as a deck officer.

The boy can either enter through one of the recognised Nautical Training establishments, the fees of which vary from £65 per annum to £160 per annum, or by apprenticeship at sea direct from school. Direct apprenticeship is, of course, the cheaper method of entry.

Boys who go to sea direct from school have to work up their theoretical knowledge during their hours of leisure. The pamphlet contains full details of how to apply for entry by either of the two methods.

Yola And Paul

These two clever artists are presenting a new programme at the Hong Kong Hotel to-night for which they will wear the most original costumes. This popular team has been delighting the Hotel patrons with their performances and are making a bid to rival other entertainers who have appeared locally.

Yola and Paul are presenting an interpretation of the valse from "Lucia" which they will follow with a Gaucho Fantasy in the Argentine national costume. They will close their programme with the "Tric-trot," a very fast quick-step, but which promises to please the Hotel diners.

In the course of the Ball Professor W. I. Gerrard of the Hong Kong University said, in part, as follows:—

This evening we gratefully acknowledge the high honour especially paid us by Sir Andrew and Lady Caldecott and by all distinguished Vice-patrons and friends who have so generously supported us but this is the first occasion on which Lady Caldecott has been able to grace our annual function with her presence. Ours is surely a unique gathering in that we welcome Lady Caldecott as Patroness and at the same time we bid both she and Sir Andrew a sad farewell.

I fully realise you are all gathered to enjoy this evening but however light hearted we may pretend to be we cannot entirely suppress feelings of sorrow at our coming grievous loss in the departure of Sir Andrew and Lady Caldecott. Their encouragement of all voluntary charitable organisations for the betterment of life is well known and deeply appreciated. We owe them a tremendous debt of gratitude for the renewed enthusiasm aroused in this particular organisation. We congratulate Sir Andrew on his promotion and

Activities Of Labour "Spies"

Payment To Detective Agency Revealed

Washington, Feb. 12. The revelation that General Motors Corporation paid the Pinkerton Detective Agency $419,000 between January 1, 1934 and July 1936 was made in testimony given before the Senate sub-committee investigating the activities of labour "spies" in previous motor strikes.—Reuter.

the Honour of K.C.M.G. conferred on him by His Majesty the King.

Sad to relate many other distinguished friends are honouring us also for the last time. I am sure they will pardon me for not mentioning them all individually. They have our thanks and very good wishes. I must refer to two names. The President of the Association, the Hon. Dr. Wellington leaves us in the near future. For his kind co-operation we thank him and may good fortune be his. Sir William Hornell, one of our Vice-Patrons has for some years, taken a kindly interest in the work in the New Territories. As you all know Sir William retires at the end of the year. We wish him a long and happy retirement. The death of Mr. Kwok Shu-lau was a grievous blow. He was always a willing and unselfish giver.

We are everlastingly grateful to our many generous supporters, among whom are the familiar names of Sir Robert Ho Tung, Mr. Chau Man-chi whose fine contribution was the splendid Headquarters in Tai Hang Road, Mr. Ho Kam-tong, Sir Ely and Mr. Lawrence Kadoorie and many others—special reference is due to one, who in recent years has given unstintingly. I refer to Mr. Aw Boo Haw. His magnificent gift is the St. John Hospital on the island of Cheung Chow. This hospital will rapidly become a great boon and blessing to many victims of tuberculosis for the treatment of which the hospital is eminently suited.

In conclusion, Professor Gerrard, on behalf of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, thanked everyone for their presence. He made special mention of the help rendered by various ladies and gentlemen.

The programme of entertainment opened with a Chinese item which was well received and this was followed by a splendid solo dance executed by Miss Azalea Reynolds with much charm and grace.

Tourist Trade From Japan

Eucharistic Congress and are getting a general survey of the various fields for the tourist trade from Japan. They are of the opinion that Hong Kong is the centre for the tourist trade in the Orient by its location.

In the course of the reception the Hon. Mr. Carrie pointed out that Mr. Miyabe was an old friend of his and they had met one another at the First Tourist Conference held in Tokyo in 1935. The speaker added that it was hoped to have another conference in 1937 and it has now been suggested that Hong Kong be selected for the meeting place of the representatives concerned.

Mr. Samamura suitably replied, stating that the object of his trip to the Colony was to make contact with the people of the Colony. He pointed out that the improvement of the tourist business in the Orient would also effect Hong Kong materially and have a beneficial effect.

POLISH-CZECH RELATIONS

Statements In Book Resented

Warsaw, Feb. 11.

The relations between Poland and Czechoslovakia, which have for a long time been strained as a result of minor disputes, are being subjected to a further severe test in consequence of a book written by the Czech Minister, Seba.

Public opinion here greatly resents Seba's statements with reference to the policy of the Little Entente and this resentment is also voiced by Deputy Walewsky in a communication addressed to the Foreign Minister, Col. Beck, in which Col. Beck is requested to give his opinion about the book, a foreword to which had been written by the Czech Foreign Minister, Krofta.

Deputy Walewsky contends that the Polish public should be given some enlightenment in this matter, particularly with regard to the political aspects and also Prague's actual intention.—Transocean News Service.
